

Online Signing Process Quick Guide

Objective: This guide will teach you how to use DocuSign, the online signing service in our Technical Partner Portal website. This program will speed up the signing process for all parties involved.

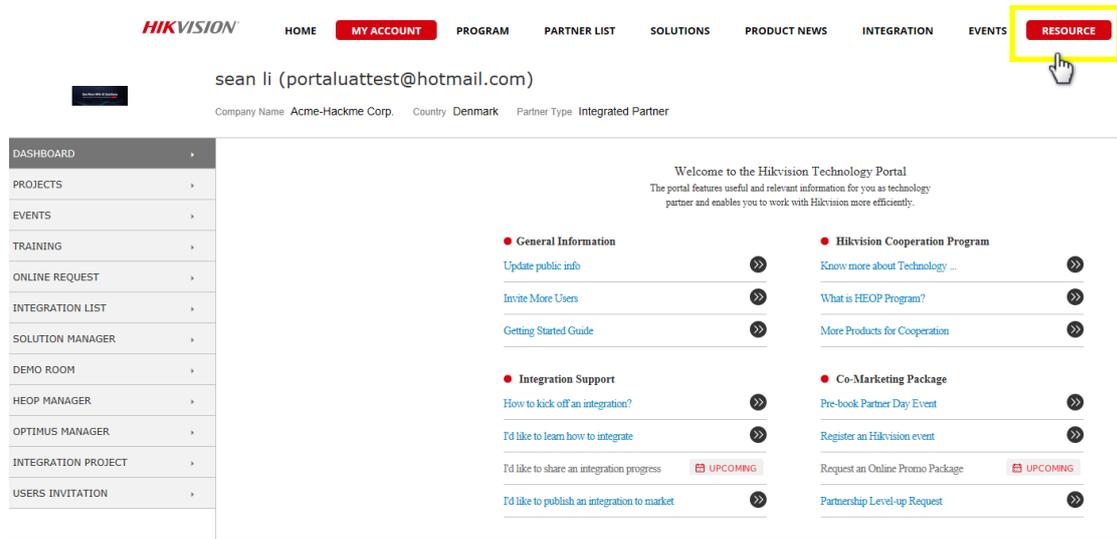

How-to

1. Log into your account on our TPP portal website at tpp.hikvision.com.

Note: If you do not already have a Hikvision TPP account, please click “Register” to create one.

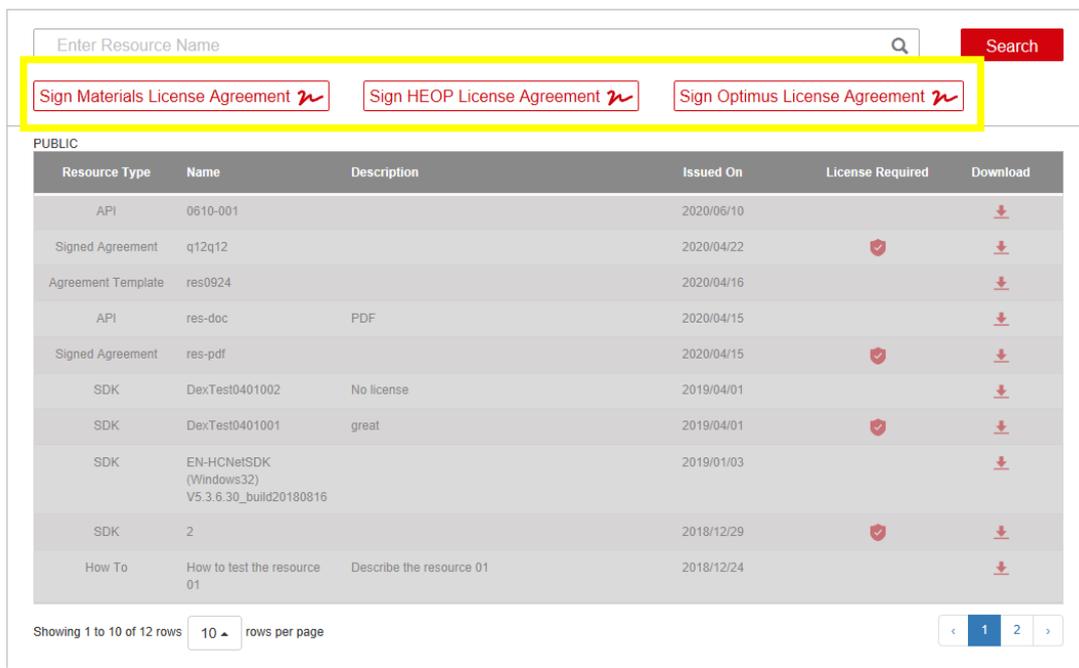

2. Once you have successfully logged in, please click on “RESOURCES” in the top menu.

3. Clicking on “RESOURCES” will launch the online signing process. You will see three types of Agreements to sign:

- Materials License Agreement: A general legal document for obtaining Hikvision’s patented device-related materials; for example, ISAPI
- HEOP License Agreement: To join Hikvision’s embedded open platform program, see <https://tpp.hikvision.com/tpp/HEOP>
- Optimus License Agreement: To join Hikvision’s middleware development program, see <https://tpp.hikvision.com/Optimus>

4. Select one of the Agreement types. Type the signer's name and make further confirmation of company information in the appropriate fields then click the "Sign the Agreement" button.

5. You should now see the DocuSign online service. Please type in or upload your digital signature in the appropriate field(s).

Note: This online service is provided by DocuSign. No digital footprint will be transmitted or saved by Hikvision.

The screenshot displays a DocuSign envelope interface. At the top, there is a blue header bar. Below it, a toolbar contains icons for search, zoom, download, print, and help. The main content area shows a document titled "HIKVISION MATERIALS LICENSE AGREEMENT". The document text includes a DocuSign Envelope ID, a disclaimer that it is a demonstration document, and the HIKVISION logo. The agreement text describes the terms of a license between Acme-Hackme Corp. and HIKVISION, including a definition of affiliates.
